Dear Dr Phil,

Something is wrong with my teenage son. He can't _____ the morning without _____ of _____ and _____ but even then, when his _____ talks to him, he starts acting like a _____ lion. I'm sure this loud new stuff he calls music is making him _____ too, he has stopped listening to me and I even found his favourite _____ in the bin.

On his _____ is a _____ skull, and I have _____ him to act his _____ but it all seems to _____ waste of time. He never wants to go to _____ but then trying to get him out of it, it's like he's _____ !!

All my friends keep telling me it's not so _____, he'll grow up, but I was hoping that for some kind of you could do a good and fix it all.

Yours Sincerely
